By International Organization for Migration

The International Organization for Migration (IOM) together with the Quality of Life Research Institute (ICCV) of the Romanian Academy, is carrying out a study among migrants from Romania regarding, with the aim of finding the best ways to support their integration into Romanian society. The study, which started in November 2023 and will be completed in May 2024, is based on a survey of migrants conducted using mixed methods of data collection and combining face-to-face interviews with online self-completion. The questionnaire is available in seven languages (Arabic, English, Hindi, Romanian, Spanish, Turkish, Vietnamese), their selection being determined by the size of the migrant communities in Romania, as well as by the languages that have the highest international circulation.
